

What is the Future Alaska Medical Leaders Program?

Today's dynamic health care system requires a set of leadership skills which are not typically taught in medical school. This program unpacks the nuances of leading with emotional intelligence, managing change, building critical thinking skills, and resiliency in an effort to create efficacious leaders.

What can I expect to learn in this program?

The program will expand your sphere of meaningful influence to include patients, organizational leaders, and other healthcare professionals. Participants will be able to apply their learning to patient advocacy/care, organizational outcomes, and community relations.

Physician leadership manifests in many different ways. From direct patient interactions to community engagement, a physician needs to have the skills to advocate for, impact, and advance care.

Who is FutureSYNC International?

While FutureSYNC Intl. works with organizations of all types, over 80% of our business is within the house of medicine. We have a keen understanding of the challenges facing today's medical professionals.

In 2013 FutureSYNC Intl. partnered with the Montana Medical Association to create their first Physician Leadership Effectiveness Program. With the goal of engaging and uniting participants, the program enhances the leadership skills for physicians by preparing them to fill emerging leadership roles and influence healthcare policy. 175 physicians have walked away from our programs with practical and action-oriented leadership skills to become catalysts for effective change in their organizations and communities.
